

No more cable clutter – The new EXCELLO Illuminated Headset Stand from Speedlink keeps the gaming table tidy

Surround sound and multi-colour lighting for the ideal gaming experience

Heeslingen/Germany, 30.09.2021 – Thanks to the EXCELLO from Speedlink, the headset is always at hand and annoying cable clutter is a thing of the past. The new Headset Stand is available from the beginning of October and not only offers an optimal storage option for headphones but is also a stylish finishing touch for any gaming setup.

Clever solution with space-saving design and non-slip underside

The Headset Stand is a real eye-catcher on every desk with its multi-coloured illumination. A touch sensor can be used to switch between three different lighting modes – creating the right atmosphere for every situation. Besides the practical design, the EXCELLO convinces with other useful features. The 7.1 sound card with suitable software offers a variety of setting options and delivers surround sound. The headset is connected either via USB or via one of the 3.5 mm jack plugs (2x 3-pin or 1x 4-pin). In addition, up to three other devices can be connected via the integrated USB hub. The non-slip underside ensures a secure stand – even on smooth surfaces. With its simple design, Speedlink's EXCELLO fits on any gaming table and, thanks to its features, allows gamers to keep an overview in any situation.
