Sustainability on your desktop: Speedlink's mousepads in collaboration with the WWF

Weertzen, 5 April 2018: With a hop, skip and a click you can get spring off to an even nicer start. With its mousepads designed in collaboration with the WWF (World Wide Fund for Nature) the electronics specialist Speedlink is showing the most beautiful animal images from around the world. What's more, for every mousepad sold Speedlink will donate 50 cents to the WWF.

Enjoy that springtime feeling for a good cause: with the purchase of a mousepad sporting images of tigers, baby leopards, meerkats, polar bears and the like, Speedlink will donate 50 cents to the WWF. It shows that Speedlink has the ability to impress with smart product ideas that go beyond just electronic peripherals. The mousepads are made from recycled natural rubber, are non-toxic, and even the packaging doesn't use any plastic. And the fact that this combination of quality, commitment and sustainability doesn't need to be expensive is proven by the price – with the mousepads starting at just €6.99.
