Listening pleasure in camo mode: Speedlink's RAIDOR headset with top-quality gaming sound.

Weertzen, 16. July 2019: Gaming accessories specialist Speedlink is launching a PS4® stereo headset with excellent sound quality in a camouflage design – the RAIDOR.

Very audible – hardly visible: Thanks to outstanding sound and maximum wearing comfort, PS4 gamers can immerse themselves completely in vibrant gaming worlds with the stereo RAIDOR headset, while the camouflage design allows them to be conspicuously inconspicuous.

As soon as the DUALSHOCK® 4 controller is connected to the Playstation® 4, your ears are in for a mighty feast: in stereo, with a high-quality rich sound. The fold-away microphone enables clear voice transmission, and inline remote makes for easy volume control or quick microphone muting.

Earcups with soft padding ensure that the RAIDOR is barely noticeable even after extended gaming sessions. Despite featuring an adjustable headband, the headset appears to have been made in one piece thanks to its striking design. The RAIDOR comes in a blue-grey or a white-grey camouflage look, and would certainly be eye-catching – if only they were visible. 😊

At a price of €29.99, the RAIDOR is the perfect addition to Speedlink's wide range of headsets designed for PS4, comprising LEGATOS, CONIUX and MAXTER.
