Gaming on cloud nine: Speedlink launches an incredible three new gaming chairs for all-conquering gaming comfort

Weertzen, 26 August 2019 – Speedlink is adding an incredible three new gaming chairs to its lineup: the TAGOS XL, XANDOR and ZAYNE. Each will take casual gamers to an entirely new level – and they’re also built to withstand competitive esports use.

Those who thirst for nothing but victory need to be free to focus on the game – and not on any aches and pains they’ve got. It’s something that goes for both esports pros and ambitious hobbyist gamers. Above all else, peak performance calls for a healthy and comfortable sitting position. After all, who wants to be changing their sitting position every five minutes just because the chair’s causing a twinge in, putting pressure on or, in the worst case, hurting their back? Thankfully, Speedlink has come to the rescue with three new gaming chairs.

“The esports community places consistently high demands on gaming chairs in terms of comfort and build quality. That’s why our chairs only feature the best padding and mechanisms. The only thing that differs between them is their look and size, because our customers ultimately have their own design preferences and often very different body shapes. This is why we’ve developed three new premium chairs to satisfy their requirements,” said Rainer Nawratil, Speedlink’s Director of Product Management, PR & Marketing. “Our new gaming chairs complement our proven esports lineup perfectly, which already comprises the YARU, LOOTER and ARIAC.”

TAGOS XL Gaming Chair

True to its name, the TAGOS XL Gaming Chair is a big chunk of gaming real estate. It offers the perfect combination of freedom and lateral support thanks to its extra-wide seat and backrest. The seat height adjusts at a single touch, and the backrest can also be tilted to suit in a flash. And what's really unique is that should the gaming session ever go on for longer than expected, the TAGOS XL can be reclined all the way back to a horizontal position – with even the armrests adjusting in four directions. It boasts soft padding throughout for maximum comfort, and its extra-large size means it doesn't hem itself in – as is to be expected from a boss-of-all-bosses executive chair. Made from high-grade PU leather with a striking black and red twin-colour design, the TAGOS XL is just as awesome to look at as it is comfortable to sit on for the most demanding of gamers with its XL dimensions.

XANDOR Gaming Chair

When at the esports tournament, other gamers will look on in envy at the XANDOR Gaming Chair and its distinctive red design elements. Its sturdy, bomb-proof build quality will withstand even the toughest hammering. And when it comes to comfort, every box is ticked thanks to its soft padding combined with adjustable, removable neck- and lumbar-support pillows, which prevent poor posture. The XANDOR also caters for each gamer's personal sitting preferences with its full-range rocker mechanism and adjustable backrest recline, which lowers all the way back to a fully horizontal, lie-flat 180° – perfect for grabbing a quick power nap during a break in the gameplay. Available for an RRP of €229.99, the prize for best price among Speedlink's new gaming chairs also goes to the XANDOR.

ZAYNE Gaming Chair

With its sumptuous black design combined with striking red piping and logo accents, this stylish chair screams understatement. Just like the XANDOR, the ZAYNE boasts a full-range rocker mechanism, an adjustable backrest recline which lowers all the way back to a fully horizontal, lie-flat 180° as well as two adjustable, removable pillows for neck and lumbar support. The specially designed ergonomic head pad delivers the next level in comfort, providing essential lateral support to relieve pressure and strain on the neck muscles – both in the heat of battle as well as during breaks. All these fantastic features make the ZAYNE the perfect choice for anyone looking to combine the comfort of a premium gaming chair with an understated, yet awesome design.
